

The Taylor Memorial Arboretum dam removal site is the featured project on the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation web site for the Delaware Estuary Program. The above photo from the web site of the newly planted site was taken in April 2006. The dam removal was accomplished by Delco Anglers and the SE RC&D Council. The plantings and restoration by CRC were through grants from American Rivers and TreeVitalize.

The site has been carefully maintained by the Arboretum with assistance and resources from CRC. This August 2007 photo of the north bank shows native grasses, trees, shrubs and wildflowers flourishing.
Photo courtesy of Larry Mattis

Thank you to Spectra Energy for its contribution to helping maintain this and other Lower Ridley Creek riparian sites.