

Lynn Meza

Lynn Meza, CRC's Volunteer Coordinator, is responsible for recruiting, training, and working with the lifeblood of CRC: its volunteers. Lynn came to CRC serendipitously, hearing about the position from a friend of Board Member Beth Murray. "I was attracted to working with a small non-profit doing good work," she says. "I love working with volunteers – I'm a natural born cheerleader and enjoy spreading the word about the good work that CRC does."

Lynn has worked in nonprofit and educational development for about 25 years. "I prefer to work for organizations where I can get to know all of the people I work with," she says. Since becoming a mother, Lynn has welcomed the switch from a full-time to part-time work schedule, working for various non-profit organizations on the communications side. In her pre-parenting life, Lynn served as Communications Director for a high school in Alameda, CA.

Currently, Lynn also works part time as the Registrar for the Wallingford Swarthmore Community Classes, the local adult continuing education school. She holds a B.A. in English from the University of Pennsylvania and an M.A. in Irish Studies from New College of California. Her hobbies include reading, writing and "anything with my husband and kids."
